Welcome to Singapore

We are pleased to welcome you to Singapore, a vibrant hub of lifelong learning. As you start on your fascinating journey of discovery, education and self-improvement, you will find that there has never been a better time to begin that journey than now in Singapore. This cosmopolitan city state offers a range of education choices and cultural diversity to enrich your learning experience during your time here.

Studying away from home opens up a world of exciting learning possibilities, more so in a country as progressive as Singapore. But along with the excitement comes the unknown as you begin your learning journey. That is why we have put together this accommodation guide to help you settle into life in Singapore quickly while avoiding common problems.

We hope that you make a home away from home during your term of study in Singapore and that you make the most of your time here with the information we provide.

The Learning Hub

Reviving community life in the heart of the city's historic Bras Basah district, the Learning Hub is a complementary blend of new and old. Centred within the borders created by Selegie Road, Rochor Road, Bras Basah Road and Victoria Street, (see map on page 67) the Learning Hub is already home to a number of traditional educational institutions and numerous private education establishments and Arts facilities. The Learning Hub has seen the re-opening of the Singapore History Museum, the new National Library and some prestigious names in tertiary education. This vibrant setting surrounded by museums, theatres, art galleries, cafes, restaurants and shopping centres will draw around 16,000 students and artists to the district by the time of its completion, to realize the vision of Singapore's hub for arts, culture, learning and entertainment.

Accommodation in Singapore

Accommodation is an important consideration while you are living away from home. You should arrange for temporary accommodation (refer to Short-term Student Accommodation on page 11) before you leave your homeland unless you have already arranged long-term accommodation for the duration of your course.

Your institution in Singapore may be able to make short-term accommodation arrangements for you. Alternatively, you can call the Student Services Hotline at 6831 3764 for assistance or visit the website www.singaporeedu.gov.sg Once settled in your temporary lodgings, you will have sufficient time to find the ideal permanent accommodation to suit your needs and lifestyle.

The type of accommodation you choose will depend on your personal circumstances and your budget. There is a wide variety of accommodation types in Singapore to suit different budgets and needs.

Accommodation Options

There are several accommodation options available to you. You may find that you qualify for accommodation provided by your institution of study such as a boarding school, school hostel or Halls of Residence. Depending on your budget and personal circumstances, you may also consider staying in a private hostel or renting private housing – landed property, apartments, condominiums and serviced apartments. A more affordable option in this category is to rent privately from tenants of Housing Development Board (HDB) flats. In accordance with HDB guidelines, you can rent a room in a HDB flat or the entire flat. For very short-term needs, a room in a hotel may be the preferred option.

Housing Development Board (HDB)

The Housing Development Board (HDB) is the government body providing subsidised, affordable homes of high quality to 84% of Singapore's population. Integrated into environments that meet modern lifestyle needs, each estate is a vibrant hub of community life and activity, carefully landscaped to make a better home for all.

Eligibility to Rent HDB Flats

Before you rent a HDB apartment, you should know the legal limitations on the landlord.

Subletting the whole flat: HDB flat owners must seek approval from the respective HDB Branch Office before subletting their whole flat. Ask to see the approval or in-principle letter before you sign any contract.

Subletting bedrooms: HDB approval is not required for subletting of bedroom/s but the flat owners must continue to live in the flat during the period of subletting. The maximum number of bedrooms that can be sublet and the maximum number of occupiers* allowed in each flat depends on their flat type.

Flat Type	Maximum Number of Bedrooms Allowed for Subletting	Maximum Number of Occupiers* Allowed in Each Flat
3-room	1 bedroom	6 persons
4-room	2 bedrooms	8 persons
5-room	2 bedrooms	8 persons
Executive	2 bedrooms	8 persons

* includes owners, authorised occupiers and subtenants

HDB flat owners of one and two-room flats are not allowed to sublet their bedrooms.

For further information on HDB matters, visit HDB's infoWEB at www.hdb.gov.sg

Private Housing – Landed Property, Apartments & Condominiums

An alternative is to rent a privately owned apartment or house directly from the owner. This can be an expensive option, so sharing with fellow students helps to spread the cost. These properties can be found advertised in the newspapers, online, on supermarket notice boards, or by hiring a property agent.

Homestays

Some households in both HDB and private property offer full board to international students. You rent a bedroom and share the household facilities. Your school may be able to help you arrange this kind of accommodation. Alternatively, you can apply through the Homestay Programme 'Edustay' run by the Association of Management Corporations in Singapore (AMCIS).

AMCIS' EduStay Programme is specially developed to guarantee quality accommodation and responsible guardianship for international students in Singapore. Guardians are carefully screened and trained, and many are retired school teachers or educators. Accommodation must meet stringent EduStay standards. A team of professionals including a Student Counsellor, a Facilities Supervisor and a Student Services Manager conducts visits to residences regularly to check on all aspects of the student's stay, from accommodation facilities to the student's health and academic performance. The team then compiles a report to be sent to the parents. You can find more details at their official homestay website: www.homestayholidays.com

A new accommodation option available is the Homestay Guardianship Programme in HDB flats operated by two service providers, Students Network Services and Innovez One. You can refer to <http://www.singaporeedu.gov.sg/htm/stu/stu0309.htm> for details.

Boarding Schools/Hostels/Halls of Residence

You have the option of staying in privately operated hostels which offer cheap accommodation with single or shared rooms. An advantage of this type of accommodation is the social aspect. You will me age and shared

services. Most hostels offer rooms ranging from single to two and four-bedded rooms. Standard services include laundry services, meals, computer facilities, television and some provide sporting facilities on site. For younger students, selected hostels offer provision of guardians, and tutors to help with studies out of school hours.

Some institutions provide on-site accommodation such as Halls of Residence at the National University of Singapore (NUS), Nanyang Technological University (NTU) and boarding school lodgings at private schools such as Raffles Institution.

Please refer to Long-term Student Accommodation on page 13 to 41 of this guide for a listing of hostels.

Before you move into a boarding school, hostel or Halls of Residence, you should decide on the level of comfort you require and prepare a list of questions to ask as a checklist. Here are some questions to get you started:

Questions to Ask

- What kind of accommodation do I qualify for?
- What is the registration procedure?
- What is the cancellation policy?
- Is there a minimum period of stay?
- Can I move in before I start my course?
- Can I extend my stay?
- Can I share a room with a friend or are all rooms assigned at random?
- What is provided and what is not?
- Are cooking facilities included?
- Is bed linen provided?
- Who do I go to if I have any questions?

Serviced Apartments

For those on a higher budget and who are staying for a longer period accompanied by family requiring the comforts of home, serviced apartments make a convenient option. These are comfortable apartments owned and managed by a property company and fully furnished like a normal home, but with hotel-style services provided such as house keeping. You will find a complete range of choices from the luxurious to the basic, from studios to penthouses, within the city centre or in suburban districts.

For a complete listing, refer to the Serviced Apartments Association Directory or contact the Association directly for more details:

Hotels

For short-term requirements, such as for those on executive courses, there is a wide variety of hotels to suit every budget. Refer to the Singapore Tourism Board's (STB) Accommodation Guide (available at Tourism Court or any Visitors' Centre) for a detailed listing.

Guide to Average Accommodation Rental

There are various accommodation options available to suit your budget. The following table gives an indication of what you can expect to pay.

Private Homestays	S$500 to S$1,000 per month.
HDB	S$250 (room only) to $1,000 (whole flat) per month
Private Property	S$1,300 to $4,000 per month
Hostels	S$140 to S$440 per student per month depending on the number of students sharing the room
Serviced Apartments	S$3,000 to $6,000 per month
Hotels	from $30 to $600 per room per night

Tips on Living in Singapore

Renting Accommodation

Tenancy Agreement

Important points to note

- Your tenancy agreement is an agreement between the owner (landlord) and the tenant (you). You must be 21 years old to sign the agreement. You may consult the Student Welfare Office at your institution or contact the Student Services Hotline: 6831 3764 if you are below 21 years of age.
- Once the contract is signed, the landlord is under no obligation to provide anything not specified in the contract. Make sure your contract is complete for your requirements before you sign. (See Before You Sign on page 46).
- If you are the tenant signing the contract, you must inform your landlord if others are living on the premises with you. All occupants' names must be entered in the tenancy agreement. As the tenant, it is your responsibility to obtain all other occupants' legal documentation such as passports, passes and permits for the landlord and keep him updated on new occupants. Never allow the landlord to keep the original documents.
- The Immigration Act requires by law that landlords renting accommodation to foreigners check and verify passport and Student's Pass details before they rent out the property. The landlord will go to jail if the property is rented to illegal immigrants.

- The property is for you to live in only. You cannot operate a business from your landlord's property.
- Whilst occupying the premises, you must allow the landlord or agent to bring potential tenants or buyers to view the premises with reasonable notice given (24-48 hours).
- The agreement may be terminated if the monthly rent is overdue for more than 14 days or if you breach any condition of the tenancy agreement.

- Tenant's Covenants/Promise

The tenant shall not:

- Remove anything from the property without the landlord's permission
- Change any part of the premises or contents without the landlord's permission
- Assign or sublet the property
- Keep any dangerous or illegal items on the premises
- Keep any animals
- Be a nuisance to other occupants of the building
- Use the premises for illegal or improper use

At the end of the contract, the Tenant shall hand over the premises to the landlord in the same condition as he took it over with allowances for fair wear and tear.

- Landlord's Covenants/Promise

The landlord shall:

- Pay all taxes, charges and bills not agreed to be paid by the tenant
- Allow the tenant quiet enjoyment during the term, provided the tenant pays the rent on time

Basic House Inspection Checklist

- If you deal with a housing agent, check that the agent is licensed. Deal only with those that carry proper cards and identity tags and are licensed. (Their number is usually printed on their card).
- Is the place comfortable? Is it the right size? Is it within your budget? (Do not be tempted to accept something you cannot afford). Does it have air conditioning or fans?
- Is the house in good condition? Check for leaks, cracks, breakages, poor water flow, insecure window or door locks. Test the appliances that come with the apartment to make sure they work.
- Ask the landlord how quickly damaged items / property can be repaired when a report is made.
- What bills are included in the rent? What bills are you expected to pay – water, gas, electrical, phone (and connection charges)?
- What furniture comes with the property? Is what you see what you get or will you have to buy a new microwave, a desk or even a bed?
- What is the area like? Are the amenities you need within easy reach? Is it noisy at night? Do you feel safe returning at night?
- Can you redecorate, bring your bed or put up posters?

Before You Sign

- Check your tenancy agreement. Make sure both you and the landlord agree on the details. How much will you pay and when? How long is the contract? Can you leave before the contract ends? What is the notice period? Does the contract state all these details?
- If the landlord says he will be fixing something before you move in, get him to confirm this in writing. Once you have signed the contract the landlord does not have to agree to provide anything extra, so make sure you request all you need before the contract is signed.
- Get the landlord's contact details in case something goes wrong. Take note of as many details as possible, including who you should phone if he goes away on holiday. Give him your contact details in case of emergency.
- Establish whether utility bills are included in the rental rate. If not, what percentage must you pay? Will bills be in your name? If so, you are legally responsible for full payment. Will your landlord inform the relevant authorities on billing instructions or will you have to do it? Were outstanding bills settled by the last occupants? Ask to see the paid receipts, or get written confirmation that the landlord will pay any outstanding bills on the apartment.
- If you are moving into shared premises, find out how bills are shared and settled.
- Check whether you can use the house telephone. If you make local calls, will you be required to pay the telephone charges, and if so, how much? If you install your own telephone line, you will need to pay S$500 as a deposit to SingTel. This deposit will be returned to you when you cancel the telephone line, upon payment of any outstanding charges.
- As the tenant, you will be expected to replace and pay for light bulbs, as and when needed.

Signing the Tenancy Agreement

- Do not feel pressured into renting a place until you are comfortable with it, as you are under no obligation to the landlord or the agent, should you use one. You should be very clear before signing any documents whether you will be sharing the room with any other person(s) for the entire duration of the rental period.
- Once you have decided to rent a property, you will sign a legal document known as a tenancy (rental) agreement and retain a copy for your reference. Refer to Tenancy Agreement: Important points to note and make sure your contract complies. Double check that the person you are dealing with is the rightful owner/landlord. Ask for his identity card and proof of property ownership if necessary.
- It is common practice for the tenant to pay stamp duty on the tenancy agreement and a security deposit equivalent to one month's rental, together with the first month's rental before you move in. If you are using an agent, one month's rent is also payable in commission to the agent's company. Thereafter, payment is usually made on a monthly basis to the landlord. The security deposit is refundable at the end of the contract period, provided there is no damage to the property. Any damages or breakages caused during your stay will be deducted from the security deposit at the end of your contract. In some cases, the security deposit may also not be refunded if the tenant does not give sufficient notice to the landlord when moving out before expiry of the contract.

- Go through the inventory list (a list of items in the apartment for the tenant's use that belong to the landlord) and make sure everything is present and in working order before signing the agreement. If the landlord is residing in the apartment, check whether use of common household facilities like the kitchen, TV, etc. is allowed.
- Make sure you have fully understood the terms and conditions/contents of the lease and have settled any uncertain terms with the landlord before signing the tenancy agreement. If you do not understand, seek advice from the Student Welfare Officer at your institution/school or contact the Student Services Hotline: 6831 3764 if you need help. Do not feel pressured by the landlord to sign the agreement if you feel uncomfortable with it.

- If your student agent is not trained in tenancy issues, seek the assistance of a licensed housing agent.
- Hand the rental fees directly to the landlord/owner, to avoid possible misunderstandings or mishandling. It is best that you make cheques payable to the landlord/owner's name. Ensure that you receive a receipt from the landlord showing the full amount of rental paid for the accommodation.
- Keep a copy of the tenancy agreement for your own records. Obtain receipts for all payments made, for example security deposit, monthly rentals, etc.
- Your possessions are not covered in the landlord's home contents insurance. It may be advisable to take up personal home contents insurance to cover your valuable belongings.

Your Relationship with Your Landlord

Remember to be polite and co-operate with your landlord. Treat your landlord the way you wish to be treated. Show respect for him and his property and you should receive the same treatment.

Many problems arise when tenants expect an immediate response to requests for change. Be reasonable with your expectations. Do not expect the landlord to act immediately if your request is not an emergency.

Legal Aid

Legal matters below $10,000 can be addressed at the Small Claims Tribunals, which provide a quick and simple procedure for solving disputes in legal matters.

Common Courtesies When Sharing Accommodation

Living in Singapore, you may find customs and religions different from those in your country. Respect them and observe these common courtesies:

Household practices

- It is a common custom in Singapore to remove your shoes before you enter a house and leave them at the door
- Keep the accommodation clean and tidy
- Keep the kitchen clean and wash up cutlery and crockery daily
- Keep the bathroom clean by washing it regularly. Flush the toilet after use.
- Organise a timetable for use of the washing machine
- Take in your laundry when it is dry to allow others in the house to do their washing
- The washing machine is meant for washing your clothes and linen. Do not wash footwear in the washing machine

Religious practices

You may be sharing your accommodation with people of different faiths. It is important to respect their beliefs and not impose your beliefs on others.

Storing food: The consumption or handling of certain food is prohibited in some religions. Please respect your housemates religious dietary restrictions. For example, Muslims do not eat pork or cook with alcohol or pork fat (lard). Hindus and Buddhists do not eat beef and some may be vegetarian. Ensure that you store and cook these products separately if your housemate observes these religious practices.

Religious rituals: Your housemates will respect your need to pray, but to show mutual respect, keep your religious practices private. Conduct your prayers in your own room. Do not disturb your housemates in the common room with the burning of incense and other religious rituals.

Care of pets

Depending on your tenancy agreement, you will probably not be allowed to keep a pet. If you are allowed, remember that it is a lifelong commitment. As most animals have a lifespan longer than your stay in Singapore, it is advisable to postpone owning a pet until you return to your own country. If you do decide to have a pet, keep its living area clean and odour free, out of respect for your housemates and for the health and well-being of the animal. Keep in mind that you will not be able to bring a dog within the proximity of a Muslim.

Household etiquette

Although you may feel you have gained a degree of freedom by living away from home, you should still observe some basic rules of household etiquette:

- Obtain permission from your landlord if you are bringing guests to stay
- Observe curfew hours by not returning home too late and be careful not to disturb the household upon your return
- Do not smoke in your room
- For the protection of your possessions and for your personal safety, keep your room locked at all times

Equipping Your Home

How you go about equipping your new home will depend on what has already been provided, how long you intend to stay, your personal preferences and your budget.

When renting, most accommodation comes semi or fully furnished, meaning that most furniture you need is already provided. You need to check before you sign the tenancy agreement for what is included so you can make a decision about what you need to buy and if you can afford to do so.

Second-hand Items

It is possible to buy second-hand furniture and utensils, which will save you some money.

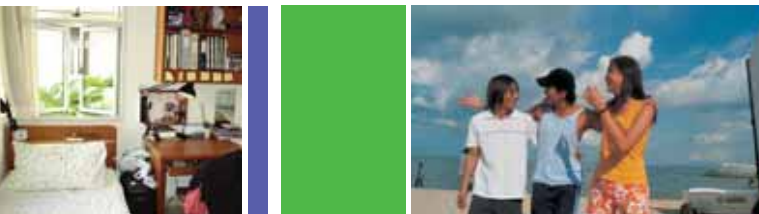

Salvation Army Family Stores and the classified section of the newspapers are good places to look for second-hand items. Singapore has a large community of expatriates and as such, many people leave Singapore wanting to sell furniture they do not wish to take home. Look for advertisements on notice boards in supermarkets such as Cold Storage for some good bargains. You may also be able to buy personal and household items from fellow students leaving Singapore.

New Furniture

If you wish to buy brand new furniture, many furniture stores offer interest-free credit arrangements. Some stores offer hire purchase facilities for which you will need a guarantor – a Singaporean citizen who will agree to take on the debt if you fail to complete payment.

Buying Smart

Before you make your purchase, shop around to find the cheapest price. You will often find that prices are lower in HDB estates than in more centralised shopping areas.

Public Utilities

Electricity, mainline gas supply, water and waste disposal services are billed by Singapore Power. If you are renting a whole apartment or flat, a combined bill for all these services will be sent to your residence, and is payable on a monthly basis.

If you are renting a single room in a property, find out if the utility bill is included in the rental fee. If not, find out what percentage of the bill you will have to pay.

Payment can be made at any Post Office via cash or NETS, by cheque through the post or via Internet banking once you have set up a bank account. If it is necessary to register for power services at Singapore Power, a one-time refundable deposit is payable.

In most properties, cookers are powered by portable gas tanks supplied by private companies operating locally. A deposit is payable for the first tank and replacements are delivered on demand, usually within 15 minutes of your phone call.

To keep your power bills down, always switch off lights, fans, air-conditioning and other electrical items when not in use.

Amenities in and around HDB and Private Estates

HDB

HDB apartments are centred in residential districts, sometimes known as the Heartlands. They are serviced by local shopping amenities, and shopping centres in larger estates. The local shops provide all the basic products and services you will need.

Shopping Amenities

Each district is serviced by supermarkets, convenience stores, household, shoe & clothing shops, hardware stores, hairdressers, opticians, banks and post offices. Prices in the heartlands are usually cheaper than in centralised shopping centres.

Wet Markets

These provide the cheapest solution to buying fresh meat, fruit and vegetables. It is best to go early in the morning before things sell out. Most stalls in the market are closed on Mondays.

Food Options

When you do not feel like cooking, eating out in Singapore is an affordable option. In your local area you will find coffee shops, and food centres/courts selling a wide range of cooked food. A meal will cost around S$3 to S$5 dollars. Most outlets operate between 7 am and 11 pm with some open 24 hours a day.

You may also find more international restaurants, cafes and fast food outlets in and around shopping centres. You can expect to pay more for a meal at these places.

Polyclinics

These are medical service providers whose fees are cheaper than private clinics. You can expect to pay about S$15 per visit. This includes medication, which you can pick up at the polyclinic on the same visit. Foreign students can see the doctor at any polyclinic, but must produce their Student's Pass.

Police Post

There is a police station or post in every district. Make sure you know where your nearest one is. The police are there to help you, so do not be afraid to ask for help if you need it. Take note of the toll-free Police Hotline for non-emergency calls: 1800 255 0000.

Places of Worship

Here in Singapore, the religions of different ethnic communities are practised harmoniously alongside one another. This allows you not only to continue to practise your own religion during your studies, but provides an excellent opportunity for you to learn about and understand other practices. You can find Chinese temples, churches, Hindu temples, mosques, Sikh Gurdwaras and synagogues located across Singapore.

Explore the area around you to find a suitable place of worship. If in doubt, contact the following organisations:

A word of warning

You may be approached by a stranger in the street or a new friend to attend a religious meeting. While they may be friendly and may genuinely have your best interests at heart, do not allow yourself to be pressured into attending if you do not want to. Politely refuse, say you respect their beliefs, and ask them to respect yours.

Community Clubs and Centres

There are over 100 Community Clubs or CCs in Singapore serving the local residential districts. These are mostly offered free of charge but there will be fees for individual activities. The activities offered vary from CC to CC but range from language classes to cooking classes, dance, martial arts, games and sports. You will find a basketball court at most centres and these are free of charge. Going to your local CC is an excellent way to involve yourself in local activities, improve your English and develop friendships.

For a list of Community Centres visit:

<http://app.sgdi.gov.sg>

Sporting Facilities

In addition to those offered at the Community Centres, the Singapore Sports Council provides subsidised sporting facilities to promote a healthy lifestyle for all. These include low-cost gyms, swimming complexes and sports stadiums.

For comprehensive information about any sport you would like to pursue, refer to the Singapore Sports Directory or visit:

www.sportingsingapore.com.sg

Transport

All HDB estates are served well by bus services and MRT lines. LRT lines operate to offer an easy connection between suburban towns. You can buy an EZlink card at any MRT station. Its value can be increased or 'topped up' with cash or a NETS card at machines located at MRT stations and bus interchanges. The same card can be used on all MRT, LRT and bus services. Using the EZlink card is not only convenient but it saves you money. If you need to change services during your journey, for example you have to take an MRT then a bus to get to your destination, the bus fare will be automatically reduced. You will not get this benefit if you pay for your travel in cash.

Private Estates

Amenities differ depending on the location. Those near HDB estates will enjoy the same conveniences. However, some private estates tend to be more secluded and less accessible to public transport. Private condominiums and apartments offer security services and may include a supermarket, swimming pools, tennis courts, gyms and other sporting facilities within their boundaries.

FAQs

How will I find accommodation?

The Student Welfare Officer at your school/ institution may be able to help. Alternatively you can call the Student Services Hotline: 6831 3764. You can also find accommodation advertised in the newspapers, on the Internet and on notice boards in certain supermarkets.

What kind of accommodation is available to me?

This depends on your budget, length of stay and whether you are alone or with family. You can share an apartment with other students, rent a whole apartment or stay in hostels. Some private tenancy agreements will require a minimum term stay, so this would not be an option if you were in Singapore for only a few months.

Can I change accommodation during my stay?

As long as you honour any contract you sign, you can change accommodation.

Do I have to sign a tenancy agreement?

Yes. Your landlord will prepare a tenancy agreement for you to sign. Make sure you understand it fully before you sign. If in doubt ask your Student Welfare Officer to help or contact the Student Services Hotline: 6831 3764.

How much money do I have to pay when I move in?

Normally, the landlord will ask for one month's rent as a deposit in addition to the first month's rent. This deposit will be returned to you when your contract ends (less any deduction for damage to the property caused during your tenancy). If you hire a housing agent to help you find the accommodation, you will have to pay the housing agent the equivalent of one month's rent as well. If you stay in a hostel, you may have to pay as much as 6 months' rent in advance.

What if I want to move out in the middle of my tenancy term?

You must follow the procedures agreed upon in the contract and give your landlord the required notice. If this is not possible, speak to your landlord to find a suitable solution.

What if my living conditions are terrible and the landlord won't change anything?

It is important that you are sure about your choice of accommodation. Check your accommodation carefully before signing the tenancy agreement. The landlord is under no obligation to improve it once you have signed the contract. However, the landlord does have an obligation by law to provide safe, sanitary accommodation. If you think your accommodation is below the acceptable standard, ask your Student Welfare Officer to help or contact the Student Services Hotline: 6831 3764.

The other students I share the apartment with are too noisy at night. What can I do?

It is important that you are happy in the place you live. If there is no change in behaviour after you have calmly discussed the matter with your flatmates, you will need to decide if you should move out. If you have not signed the tenancy agreement and are listed as an occupant, this would be the easier option. If you have signed the tenancy agreement, you can refer the matter to the landlord.
